2. What is it for?
3. Which room?
4. Whereabouts?
5. Measurements

2.

Are you looking for something for the whole family?
 To watch TV from?
 Or for relaxing with a book?
 Do you need a sofa bed option?

knowing what you're going to use your sofa for will help you decide what shape you need and what end style your corner group has. you can also think about whether you would benefit from a recliner option and if so, whether it should be powered or manual.

3. The room you're putting your new sofa in might effect the material you choose.

in a kitchen, you might want to choose something that's easy to clean. leather is more resilient than fabric when it comes to spills! or if you prefer fabric, you might want to consider stain protection.

leather can fade when left in direct sunlight, so if your sofa is for a conservatory for example, you might want to think about whether leather or fabric is best for you.

4. Where in the room will you put your sofa?

5. Measurements Don't forget:

check the height of window sills and placement of plug sockets and radiators when deciding where your sofa will sit.

Would you like it to sit flush against the wall?
 If it's in the middle of the room, do you want the headrest to lay flat to save from obstructing a views when not in use?
